In most cases, two-week times period will be allowed for institution of the behavior change plan and for changes in behavior to begin to occur. At the end of the two-week period, a follow-up conference will be held, to discuss the observed changes in behavior and if changes need to be made to the plan or to decide if the child is not responding positively. In cases where the inappropriate behavior has not shown any positive changes then at that time (the end of the second week), the parent(s)/guardian will be put on notice of expulsion from the program. If the child is deemed expelled, the parents will be given a notice that in one-week their child will be expelled (dismissed) from St. Joseph Preschool at the end of the following week. This would allow the parent(s)/guardian a week to make alternate arrangements for the child.
